SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Tom Llewelyn of Scofield Shot in the Leg

BY W. C. BURROWS.

The Row Occurred over a Dispute as to Ownership of Three Acres of Meadow Land--Other Interesting and Important News From Scofield.

SCOFIELD, Utah, July 25.—[Special correspondence of THE DISPATCH]— A shooting affray took place here this evening, and as a result Tom Llewelyn has a bullet hole through his leg. The shooting occurred over a dispute as to some hay-land between Mr.
Llewelyn and W. C. Burrows. The land in dispute is part of a school section and Mr. Llewelyn has settled on it. A small piece of three acres is cut off by Mud creek and this adjoins the land of W. C. Burrows. There is a nice crop of hay on it and it is over the cutting of hay that the shooting resulted. Your correspondent called on W. C. Burrows this evening and here is the account given by him.

He said he had been accustomed to cut his hay each year and at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon he and a hired man named Sturgess went to the land and commenced cutting. Shortly after 6 o'clock Mr. Llewelyn rode up and stopped his horse in front of Burrows's team and ordered Sturgess to quit cutting or he would blow the brains out of both men. Burrows had a wooden rake in his hand and he tried to make Llewelyn's horse move. Llewelyn struck Burrows over the head and hands with a blacksnake whip, cutting him on the back of the hand. After some more quarreling Llewelyn jumped from his horse and advanced on Burrows with the butt of the black-snake raised to strike him. When about fifteen or sixteen feet separated them Burrows pulled his gun and shot him through the leg. Llewelyn dropped and commenced to yell with the pain. Burrows and Sturgess waited until they saw help coming when they started for home. Arriving there Burrows got on horse-back and rode into Scofield and placed himself in the hands of Sheriff Lloyd. He was taken before Judge Webber and after making a deposition was placed under $500 bonds.

Mr. Llewelyn's boy came to Scofield and got Dr. Smith to go down with him to the wounded man. Your correspondent failed to see Mr. Llewelyn and get his statement of the case, but will do later. Both men are well known here. Llewelyn is a miner, and Burrows is the oldest settler in the valley.

Pioneer Day was appropriately celebrated here. During the day there was a program of songs, speeches, etc., followed by sports and the distribution of candy, nuts and oranges among the children. Andrew Hood was orator of the day and delivered a fine address on the origin and journey of the pioneers.
In the evening the school children under the direction of Mr. John Hood, rendered the cantata "Strange Visitors," representing fourteen different nations, concluding with a grand patriotic drill. The little ones acquitted themselves nicely, as the songs were all rendered in an admirable manner.
The various costumes and flags presented a magnificent appearance and as a climax all foreign flags disappeared and each member bore proudly an American flag, and sang American patriotic songs. The climax created a great deal of enthusiasm. The house was crowded, and the performance will likely be repeated.

As a party of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Art Campbell were out riding this evening, a little boy jumped in front of one of the horses causing its rider, Miss Ellerbeck of Salt Lake, to be thrown violently to the ground.
The lady was picked up and after a few minutes she was able to take her seat in the saddle. She was badly shaken up and somewhat bruised.

There is a great deal of sickness in Winter Quarters at present. Scatter is quite prevalent among the children.

The eldest daughter of John Con-ningham is lying dangerously ill of blood poisoning. Dr. Smith is doing

The mines are almost at a standstill at present. Winter Quarters mine

THE MODERN OYSTER STEW.

The Middle Aged Man Contrasts It With the Stew of Before the War.
"When I was a boy, before the war," said a middle aged man, "the price of an oyster stew in a good ordinary restaurant was 12 1/2 cents. The price has gradually gone up until now, in a good restaurant, an ordinary stew costs 25 cents. In the old restaurant there was a cloth upon the table, but this cloth, unless you happened to drop it when it had just been put on, was apt to be resented with coffee stains. There were catchup and vinegar and so on, some of them perhaps in bottles in a casket.
Perhaps the waiter gave you a pickle or two. The light was not very bright.
The waiter brought the stew in an oyster plate, and as the hot broth washed about a little in the plate as he carried it and set it down you were afraid it might burn his thumb. But the oysters were good. Let me pause to remark that the oyster is something to be grateful for."

"Today the table, without a cloth perhaps, is cherry or mahogany, finely polished. For a cloth there is spread before you a napkin of ample dimensions and bright and fresh. The pickle is chopped up celery and very good.
You get two kinds of crackers, and plenty of them, and a generous portion of French bread. The butter comes in a slightly little cone. The table furniture is all good—dishes, glass, everything. The spread before you is agreeable to the eye, and the whole scene is brilliantly lighted with the modern incandescent lamps. The stew comes in an oval dish that rests upon a plate. I don't like to eat out of such a dish so well as I do out of a plate, but you know at least there is no danger burning the waiter's thumb. The oysters are good; the whole arrangement is away beyond the best of before the war. It costs more, but are we not better able to pay for it? For general get up and get dash and style and comfort the old stew couldn't begin to compare with it.
The modern oyster stew is one of many things that we do an everlasting sight better than we did."—New York Sun.

A Countryman's suggestion.

A countryman who boarded the fire boat New Yorker at her berth at the Battery the other day was interested to observe the completeness of her equipment for fighting fire along the river front. Her powerful pumps and ingenious arrangements for directing the streams upon burning buildings or into the holds of vessels filled him with admiration. Then he asked the engineer to show him the workings of the searchlight. He took it for granted that there was one and was amazed to learn that there was no electrical plant at all on the boat. This would appear to be a curious deficiency in a boat otherwise perfectly appointed, and it is difficult to see how so obvious a need could have been overlooked in the building of the New Yorker. The countryman's discovery has led to a discussion of the need of a searchlight and may lead to its installation on the boat. It is admitted that such a light would be of the greatest value to the New Yorker in finding its way at night about among the crowded and tangled slips. It would, moreover, make it possible to direct a powerful light upon the fronts of warehouses, to the very great assistance of the firemen. Electric lights on the boat would also be supplied in place of the old fashioned oil lamps that are now in

THE LONDON JOHNNIES.

sons of British Noblemen Shock Politic Society by Their Gaiety On.

Polite society in London has had another severe shock in the announcement that one of the most eligible young men in the matrimonial market has engaged himself to a port young person playing a second rate part at the Gaiety theater.
The gentleman is Majoribanks, the eldest son of Lord Tweedmouth, one of the wealthiest of peers, and the lady is Miss Birdie Sutherland, better known perhaps as the sister of Lily Harold, the comedienne and singer of plantation songs, at present gracing the Drury Lane pantomime. Nobody has ventured to suggest that these two young women are not as good and virtuous as they are undoubtedly pretty, and it is a fact that they reside in a genteel suburb with their widowed mother and frequently take part in local church charity concerts, but all that, with additional proof of severe respectability afforded by the fact that their father was a clerk in the Bank of England, is scarcely sufficient to justify their ambition to contract an alliance with a family the head of which is a member of the British cabinet.

Lord Tweedmouth asked newspaper men in the common lobby to contradict the report of his son's engagement, from which it may be assumed that he succeeded in arranging matters. But it would not be at all surprising if the match would be ratified after all.
Young Majoribanks, who is familiarly known to the habitués of the Gaiety theater as "the Skipper," celebrated his majority the other day.
This infatuation is probably the result of the latest fad among the London Johnnies, who indulge in exciting rivalry to score the highest possible number of attendances in the front row of the stalls where the most popular entertainment is given. There is declared to be the finest aggregation of female loveliness just now in "The Shopgirl" on the Gaiety theater stage that was ever achieved in London. The same individuals fill the front stalls night after night. They are either very young or very old, but the young ones predominate. The Sun reporter in the lobby the other evening heard young Majoribanks boast to another sprig of nobility that it was his sixty-second attendance. The other appeared quite crestfallen. He said it was only his forty-fifth.—Lon-
